

Godless Cosmologies

March 2026

This is a gothic, literary fantasy which follows an asylum patient facing one of life's greatest paradoxes, that to heal one's mind through love, one may have to lose one's mind first.

When young Pear arrives at Kopolka's mental asylum on the day of his mother's death, he is summoned to a midnight, cavernous rendezvous where he meets Mystery.

What follows is a fascinating, gripping, metaphysical novel in the vein of... well, none. It's an original. A rare and beautifully crafted original.

Read it and wonder.

The Publisher

Hawkwood Books has been operating since 2006.

We publish a range of genres in paperback with distinctive colour-coded covers. Some titles are also offered in electronic formats.

Though small, our standards are high and we print through a top class company.

Authors come from all walks of life with vastly different approaches to writing.

Hawkwood offers a way in to writers whose works may have been overlooked elsewhere.

Our books are occasionally bought by publishers with greater reach worldwide.

One of our books has been nominated for the Carnegie Medal and other positively reviewed in national media.

We distribute mainly through Gardners and our titles are available through all reputable outlets.

2006 to Dec-25
